RecSports Basketball All-Hack Team

Name	Team Name	Hometown	Year in School
Jenelle Carter	Hoodridge	West Chatham	Junior
One of the most explosive players every to play in RecSports, Jenelle stunned the crowd with his highlight reel dunk. Flashback to Dominique Wilkins if you need a comparison. He brought precise court vision to this championship team.
Vincent Dillard	Hoodridge	Chicago	Junior
Vince is the definition of clutch, hitting the game winning three to give Hoodridge the championship shirts. His friends should start calling him "exterior illumination"...he can light it up from the outside.
Joe Mills	Bushwackers	Freeport	Junior
A defensive specialist, Joe brings the pain in the paint. Hasheem Thabeet has nothing on Mr. Mills. He causes damage with his infamous mid-range jumper (a lost art of sorts).
Eli Brouhard	Bushwackers	Freeport	Junior
His ball handling skills was one of the reasons this team made it to Redbird Arena. Weaving in and out of traffic, Eli never turned it over. He always knew when to dish the rock and find the open man, or take it all the way to the rim himself.
Ryan Lajiness	Pike Gold	Palatine	Junior
As a graphic communications student, Ryan is used to making things look pretty. It didn't stop when he stepped onto Doug Collins Court. Whether his team needed a big-time shot or consistent free-throw shooting down the stretch, Ryan didn't waver.
Steve Kunz	Pike Gold	Lake Zurich	Sophomore
As an Accounting and Finance double-major, this future Wall Street professional currently watched his stock climb as the leading rebounder of Greek champ Pike Gold. While the rest of the nation tries to bounce back, Steve is riding the wave of economic uncertainty as the endorsement deals are sure to roll in.
Brad Keeler	Sig Tau 8	Naperville	Freshman
The only Freshman to make the AHT, this "Diaper Dandie" didn't disappoint on the big stage. Naperville is known for the Riverwalk, but Brad might just change his hometown's thinking if he keeps this up.
Mike Snow	Sig Tau 8	Naperville	Senior
Mr. Snow blanketed the competition like Bloomington-Normal the past two weekends. Just because it's late March doesn't mean Mother Nature (or Mike Snow) will take a day off. His outside shooting and aggressive defense keyed a late push.
Tiffany Hudson	Domination	Naperville	Senior
After a tremendous career at the D-1 level, Tiffany looked to own ISU...and she did. One of the best ball handlers to play RecSports, we had to fill out twice as many injury reports this year because of all the ankles she broke.
Lashawn Johnson	Domination	Chicago	Senior
As the founder of the All-Hack team, I hereby crown Lashawn "Queen of the Paint", showing her authority on both sides of the court. She was Domination's go-to-gal throughout the entire playoff run.
Laura Stroll	DTW	Elgin	Junior
Not needing an energy drink to get going, Laura is the caffeine that gets "Destined To Win" on track...and keeps them there. Laura does all the little things that don't get measured on the stat sheet.
Nicole Williams	DTW	Normal	Junior
Nicole is the heart and soul of DTW. A home town hero, she was a key to helping her team reach the promised land of Redbird Greats.
Kevin Calabrese	Last Chance	Bloomingtondale	Senior
Determined to win a Rec Basketball Championship, Kevin was errorless throughout the Playoff run. His outside shooting was key to his "last time" at Redbird Arena.
Emily Dreissen	Last Chance	St. Charles	Junior
You can't spell Dreissen without D. Emily provided the lockdown defense throughout the entire season and Playoffs. She was nifty in and around the rim, scoring at will.
Nick Pahl	With Ourselves	Hoffman Estates	Sophomore
No "Sophomore Slump" for Nick. He was able to split the defense with his D-Wade type of ball handling skills.
Katie Cooper	With Ourselves	Plano	Sophomore
Formerly a Plano Reaper, Katie left her mark this Basketball season. She was relentless on defense, and could work at IHOP. She was "flippin" 'em over at will, helping her team to the championship round.
